Instructions for preparing manuscripts

Manuscripts

A full-length paper should normally be divided into the following parts: Title, Authors' names and corresponding address with email. ABSTRACT (not exceeding 200 words), Keywords (not exceeding 5 words), INTRODUCTION, MATERIALS AND METHODS (or MODELS AND DATA), RESULTS, DISCUSSION (or RESULT AND DISCUSSION or APPLICATIONS), CONCLUSION, ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS, REFERENCES and ANNEXURES if any.

Title: Titles should indicate the content of the manuscript, serve as a guide to reference librarians, and facilitate communication. It should be concise, meaningful, and clear. Subtitles may be used whenever needed.

Author(s): The full name of the author(s) should be written centre aligned, below the title. Authors should identify the name and address of the author to whom correspondence should be sent.

ABSTRACT: Abstract should be understandable by itself, and briefly explain the main messages of the paper. It must contain experimental question, method, major findings and conclusions briefly not exceeding 200 words.

INTRODUCTION: The purpose of your research should appear in the Introduction. State the questions you sought to answer, and provide pertinent information of previous findings for those questions.

MATERIALS AND METHODS: Provide sufficient information clearly to allow someone to repeat your work. A clear description of your experimental design, sampling procedures, and statistical procedures. Give the model number for equipment used (if any).

RESULTS: Results should be stated concisely, do not interpret your findings.

DISCUSSION: Differentiate the results of your study from data obtained from other secondary sources. Interpret your results, relate them to the results of previous research, and discuss the implications of your results.

CONCLUSION: State clearly the main conclusions of the research and give a clear explanation of the importance and relevance.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS: Acknowledge only those who have made an important contribution to the study. Many contributions justify acknowledgement such as technical help, financial support, sources of materials, and persons who have contributed intellectually to the development of the manuscript. Do not acknowledge anyone who has no contribution.

REFERENCES: List all cited References alphabetically. A blank line should be inserted between two references.
